Subject: DCI Statement for SIGNAL Magazine

Attached is a request for the DCI to submit a 300-word statement on some aspect of the C³I field for publication in the June issue of SIGNAL Magazine. As we discussed today, I would like a draft statement by COB 23 March, if possible. We will need some time to put the final package together and secure the Director's approval by the 4 April deadline.

I appreciate your help in this effort.

The Honorable William Webster
Director
Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, D.C. 20505

Dear Judge Webster:

Each year, SIGNAL Magazine publishes a number of short statements by top government leaders like you on the current state of the command, control, communications and intelligence (C³I) field. These statements are the highlight of the June issue of the magazine, which is distributed at the annual exhibition and symposia of the Armed Forces Communications and Electronics Association (AFCEA) in Washington.

We invite you to submit a short statement of about 300 words, along with a photograph, for use in our June issue. What we have in mind is a brief assessment of the state of the art in C³I as you see it, as well as your assessment of what we can expect in the future. If you wish to confine your statement to some aspect of C³I that is of particular interest to you, that will be perfectly acceptable.

Our deadline for receipt of the statement and your photograph is April 4, 1988. We look forward to hearing from you shortly with a favorable response to our invitation.

Sincerely,

Judith H. Shreve
